ANNOUNCEMENT ON RECIPROCITY TO BE MADE IN HOUSE OF COMMONS THIS AFTERNOON

ANXIOUSLY AWAITING FIELDING'S STATEMENT

Minister of Finance Will Reveal Terms of Trade Agreement This Afternoon—Manufacturers in the Capital

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—The capital is agog today over announcement as to the result of negotiations for a reciprocal trade agreement recently negotiated at Washington. Mr. Fielding, minister of finance and customs, the minister of customs, which is to be made in common this p.m. at four o'clock although it is possible if the parliamentary business is disposed of quickly. Fielding may commence to speak a little before that time.

The seats in the house promises to be memoranda of the members of the members will be large and the galleries will be crowded with a throng anxious to hear what Fielding has to say. Many will be there as a matter of curiosity only, while others, including a number of manufacturers who are in the city, will be eager to

VERY LIGHT VOTE ON MONEY BYLAWS

Only Four Hundred Ratepayers Out of 3000 Had Cast Ballots at Noon

The indications are that, but a small proportion of the burgesses will turn out today to record their votes on the six by-laws which are being submitted to the support of the by-laws, and as the opposition of the by-laws are but a small minority of the voters, the indications are that today's voting will show one of the smallest quorums of the past year.

At noon not more than 400 voters, out of some 3000 residents in the city, had recorded their votes. It was not until nearly eleven o'clock that the first ratepayer appeared at the city hall station to exercise his franchise, and the poll has been uniformly light. At every poll which has been held from.

It is anticipated that this afternoon there will be a very large increase in the poll. So far as could be learned this morning the indications are that the opposition of them, has been negligible. Indications that the strength of such opposition as has been manifested is directed against the east end bridge by-law by persons who are dissatisfied with the location of the bridge. In some quarters also the industrial sites by-law is meeting with opposition.

Discuss Elevator Problem.
Ottawa, Jan. 26.—Members from the Prairie Provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba monopolized practically all of the short Wednesday sitting of the Senate with a discussion of the terminal elevator problem arising out of the claims of the Western farmers that grain is tampered with on route from the producer to the West to the British market.

The discussion was based on the motion of Mr. Martin, Regina, which in general terms called upon the government to take steps to prevent the improper admixture of grain delivered to the terminal and transfer elevators.

Dr. Schaffner, Souris, has another motion on the order paper in favor of the government operation of elevators and this will be discussed later.

Would Break Treaty.
Toronto, Jan. 26.—A Telegram special from New York this afternoon says: "A special to The Journal of Commerce from Washington says: 'Information which has reached the Senate with reference to the contents of the reciprocity treaty or the amendments concluded by the President with Canada, is already leading to a strong combination of forces against the adoption of the agreement. Singularly enough, the anti-tariff movement is now being led by the New England men who have been leading the talk about reciprocity.'

OPPOSE HOME RULE
Toronto, Jan. 26.—A strong resolution against home rule for Ireland was the feature of last night's meeting of the Ontario County Ladies. The resolution, which was adopted, was that an independent parliament for Ireland would mean the dismemberment of the Empire and an injustice to Ulster which has done so much for civil and religious liberty. Copies of the resolution are to be sent to Premier Asquith, to the leader of the British opposition, Mr. A. J. Balfour and to the grand master of the Orange order for England, Ireland and Scotland.

C.N.R. IS PREPARING FOR WORK ON MAIN LINE WEST OF CITY

Over $671 Collected for Widows and Children of Men Killed at Bellevue

Relief fund for the support of these widows and orphans has been started at Bellevue, and according to a letter received by the Capital this morning from Secretary Burke of the local miners union at Bellevue, a total of $27,185 had been collected to January 16th, and a total of $655 disbursed in relief work. Edmonton citizens are being asked to subscribe to the fund.

The fund is growing rapidly. Some of the prominent subscribers are as follows: Fred Oliver, United Mine Workers of America $1000, local union of Lethbridge $250, Lethbridge Herald subscription $250, Nicola Valley coal and coke company and employees $200, Michel local union $200, historic 1910 Mine workers $500, C. J. Hill, Hillcrest, $100, Tom Graham, Michel, $100, C. J. Ekstrom, Graham, $100 in groceries. Other contributors were S. B. Woods, C.C. Johnson, H. A. Macleod, Edmonson, M.P.P., W. M. Campbell, crown prosecutor, Melville, and others.

Preparations for some big work by the line west of Edmonton are now being made by the engineering department of the railway, for the season of 1911.

Practically all of that portion of their main line west of Edmonton from the Pembina river west to the Yellowhead Pass, a distance of nearly 200 miles, will be placed under contract this spring, and will require a couple of years to complete. There are already 70 miles of work of Edmonton to the Pembina under contract and this stretch will be completed this season with at least 70 miles of the Yellowhead stretch will be finished.

Down at the Canadian Northern baggage rooms on First street, there has been a big outfit, snow shoes, trails, and all manner of equipment for the winter work of the first surveyors party of the railway company to go out this spring. The outfit belongs to the staff of the preliminary engineers on the staff of the railway company. This engineer has reached Edmonton, and will leave the city for the west this week. His work will be to revise the location of the line west of the Pembina to the Yellowhead, in an endeavor to secure a more direct line north of the Grand Trunk Pacific. The party will work right through to the Yellowhead and will be absent all summer.

Contrast to Be Lost Soon.
Within a few months the stretch from the Pembina west to the foothills will be awarded from the officers

PLANNING SEASONS WORK ON G.T.P.

Company's Chief Engineer and Prominent Contractor Left for the West This Morning

On a special train which left for the west this morning, over the Grand Trunk Pacific, Messrs. B. K. Kellier, chief engineer of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and P. Welch, of the firm of Foley, Welch and Stewart, contractors for the G.T.P. line through the Yellowhead, went west this morning as far as the end of the steel, near Prairie Creek, for the purpose of looking over work the coming season.

Mr. Kellier reached the city last night in his private car, which was attached to the regular express from the east. He and Mr. Welch will be in the city tomorrow, and will leave for the east again.

Mr. Welch is expected, may take charge of the line through the past winter. The Grand Trunk Pacific, coming summer. Work is to be proceeded with in earnest on the opening of spring, and an enormous array of men are to be sent west when the season commences. The railway company expect to complete a good portion of the line through the past winter. Supplies are now being freighted to the camps beyond the Athabasca and into the pass. Two thousand teams are on this work. Construction work will be in full swing by April.

J. W. Stewart who has been in charge of the construction of the prairie sections of the transcontinental, is now on his way home from England, and will come west with the course of a week or so. Mr. Stewart will continue his attention to the Prince Rupert end of the line, 200 miles of which is now under contract.

A number of big rock construction outfits will, it is expected, be shipped in by Foley, Welch and Stewart this spring, for the purpose of carrying on work in the mountains.

Martin on Witness Stand.
Vancouver, Jan. 26.—At the Chinese investigation today, Joseph Martin renewed the charges of graft against the Liberal organization in Vancouver, couching his remarks in general terms. He stated that he knew nothing of his own personal knowledge of fraud in connection with the Chinese investigation. He added that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been remiss in not investigating the charges of graft against the Liberal organization in Vancouver, couching his remarks in general terms. He stated that he knew nothing of his own personal knowledge of fraud in connection with the Chinese investigation.

Mr. Martin, when asked for names by Mr. Crossin, said he would suggest Mr. Kelley as a witness, also Mr. Templeman and Randolph Smith, M.P., "as it is," he added, "the latter party has disappeared in a cloud of smoke."

Will Complete Big Stretch of Grade West of Pembina—Surveyors Leave City This Week—Many Men Will Be Required

Over 2000 Men Will Be Required

Over 2000 men will be required when the Canadian Northern west of Edmonton gets under way this spring. Messrs. Neilson Bros., who are building the stretch west to the Pembina, have completed the line practically as far as Lac Ste. Anne, a distance of forty miles. They will put on a large number of men at the opening of the season. The Union Construction company, men will also require a large number of men for their work west of the Pembina.

Big Bridge at Pembina.
A big $250,000 bridge, over the Pembina canyon, similar to the bridge built by the Grand Trunk Pacific, will be erected by the Canadian Northern at their point of crossing the Pembina, nearly a mile north of the G.T.P. crossing. It is expected that work will commence on this bridge next year.

Work From B. C. End.
At the B. C. end of their main line, the Canadian Northern have now 100 miles under contract and some 60 miles completed, west of New Westminster. It is expected that a 70-mile contract north of Kamloops will be let this year.

Contrast to Be Lost Soon.

WILL INCREASE SALARIES OF DEPARTMENTAL HEADS

If the Commissioners Report Is Adopted by City Council Special Meeting This Afternoon

All-round increase in the salaries of the heads of civil utilities departments will be recommended by the commissioners at the special meeting of the council this afternoon. It is proposed that the salaries of such of the officials as now fall short of $500 a month, should be increased to that figure.

The salaries of the heads of departments are at present as follows: A. J. Latornell, city engineer, $5,600 a year; P. McNaughton, power house superintendent, $3,000; J. W. Trimble, electric light and power department, $1,800; C. V. Dwyer, street railway department, $1,800; W. H. Griffith, telephone department, $1,800; A. McLean, waterworks department, $1,500 a month; J. McPherson, fire, $1,400 a month.

The salary of the building inspector will probably be based on the ending of the public works department which investigated the workings of the department recently.

SIR CHARLES WENTWORTH DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Strain Brought on by Recent Campaign Drought Cause of Death—Long a Member of Parliament

London, Jan. 26.—Sir Charles Wentworth died yesterday. Immediate cause of death was heart failure. He was thought to be in feeble condition since re-election. The strain of the campaign having effected him severely. He went to the south of France to recuperate, returning to London last Saturday. Soon after reaching home he took his bed.

Sir Charles, was born in 1842 and had represented the division of Gloucestershire in parliament since 1892. He was recognized as one of the most brilliant talents in politics, particularly in the domain of foreign affairs. But for the old divorce scandal which blighted his career he probably would have held the most important office of his country. His first wife Catherine, daughter of Captain Arthur Moorshead, died in 1874, and in 1885 Sir Charles married Emily Francis, the daughter of Major Henry Strong and the widow of Mark Pattison, the rector of Lincoln college, Oxford.

TO FURTHER INVESTIGATE GOLD CLAIMS ON PEEL RIVER

CLAIMS LOCATED BY LATE HARRY WAUGH WILL BE INVESTIGATED BY EDMONTON EXPERT—COMPANY PLAN DEVELOPMENT

Through investigation, and probable development of the big gold claims located on the Peel river, 200 miles north of Edmonton, over a year ago by Harry Waugh, who later committed suicide in Chicago, and by the Warn brothers of Vancouver, is to be made this spring by the company which has taken over the gold claims and in which company the Warn brothers are still interested.

Lance Warn, one of those interested, was in the city yesterday, and left for the coast, and San Francisco, after which he will go to the coast to Dawson, and to the Peel river over the divide.

He will take with him John East, of Edmonton, gold ore expert, who has been asked by the company to make a full investigation of the possibilities of the claims located by the late Harry Waugh, and to proceed with development with the machinery taken over a year ago, if the claims prove valuable.

Over a year ago, Harry Waugh, well known in Edmonton, left Edmonton with the two Warn brothers, for the north, taking with him a two-ton stamp mill, the biggest gold mill ever taken into the north by way of Edmonton. They managed to get the machinery up to the Peel river where it was frozen in some distance from the claims. Waugh then came out by way of Dawson, and went to his home in Seattle, thence on to Chicago, for the purpose of raising money for the project. His friends in Edmonton were started one day to hear of his suicide in a hotel there. He had evidently become dependent over the failure to raise money.

Meanwhile the Warn brothers, who were not used to life in the wilds, were meeting with difficulties in the north. At one time they were reported to be lost. Finally they were discovered on the Peel by Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, while he was en route through the north by the Yukon last summer, and by the mounted police who were accompanying Mr. Oliver. The police brought them the first word of the untimely death of their partner Waugh.

The Warn brothers returned to the north last fall none the worse for their adventures, and will return to the Peel this spring. The claims are understood to be very valuable, and if so, the company will take the two-ton mill to the mines, and commence development.

PROGRAM FOR EDMONTON'S FIRST SPRING STOCK SHOW

TAKES IN ALL CLASSES OF PEDIGREED STOCK—COMMITTEE IN CHARGE WILL DISTRIBUTE PRIZES WHICH WILL TOTAL $1500

The programme of the Edmonton exhibit on the association's first annual spring stock show, which is to be held on April 26 and 27 next, has just been issued.

The committee in charge are offering a total of $1500 in prizes, a larger sum than has been offered for some time in the west in stock shows. The programme is an exceedingly attractive one, and a large prize is offered. A bull sale is to be held in connection with the show. The following is the programme:

1.—Animals whose pedigrees are published in the catalogue of sale may compete without any formal entry, but the committee reserves the right to order any animal out of the ring, which in its opinion, is not worthy of a prize.

2.—The decision of the judge is to be absolutely final.

3.—The ages of the cattle shall be computed from the actual date of birth.

4.—Prizes in each class will be 100, 50, 25, 10, 5, 2, 1, 50c.

BRITISH CRUISERS TO WATCH HORNET

Honduras Rebel Gunboat May Be Seized and Sent to New Orleans

Washington, Jan. 26.—The arrival of the British cruiser Dryad, on the Atlantic coast of Honduras, has been reported to the navy department by Commander Cooper of the United States gunboat Albatross, which, with the Tacoma, is on watch during the revolutionary disturbances in that country.

The Albatross reported to the state department today that the population of Honduras showed no signs of lending support to the revolution. The British cruiser Dryad, which has been reported to the navy department by Commander Cooper of the United States gunboat Albatross, which, with the Tacoma, is on watch during the revolutionary disturbances in that country.

The department of justice is investigating the status of the revolutionary gunboat Hornet. It is believed that orders will be issued eventually to the American gunboats to seize the Hornet and bring her to New Orleans. It is contended the revolutionary forces in the west when she sailed from New Orleans last month is now shown by her appearance as a ship of war.

Meanwhile she is not to be allowed to bombard any Honduran port.

"SPIRIT WIDOW" FACES EARTHY ONE

Woman Has Communication With "The Beyond," Seeks Monetary Share of Estate

New York, Jan. 26.—A "spirit widow" faced a real material insurance policy in Justice Bigler's part of the Supreme Court the other day. The "spirit widow" was Mrs. Julia A. Proll, of Brooklyn, a stenographer and private secretary, and the other was Mrs. Julia A. Proll, of Saratoga Lake. The suit was directed against the State Superintendent of Insurance as liquidator of the Union Insurance company, which in 1902 is said to have issued a policy on the life of William Edgar Proll, and inventor and promoter, with offices at No. 78 John street. He died in 1907, at Hackettstown, N. J., leaving the "widows" in ignorance of each other.

Mrs. Lawson, who appears to be about thirty years old, told the jury that in 1910 she was stenographer to Mr. Proll, who was then sixty years old. She said she told her in that year that at a spiritualistic seance he had received information of the kindness of her spirits, having been told in so many words that the soul of a wife in the land beyond was represented on earth in Miss Lawson. She accepted the statement, she says, and soon after that went on a European trip with Mr. Proll.

Was a Spirit Wife. For six years she lived with Mr. Proll as his "spirit wife," she said, being known to her parents and among her friends as Mrs. Proll, and in the course of this time Mr. Proll assigned to her a $20,000 life insurance policy for the benefit of her two children. He had nothing to say about it, she said, and she had no knowledge of it until she was living in Hackettstown, until before his death.

In his last illness he retired to Hackettstown. According to Mrs. Proll, he represented to his family that he had been in a sanitarium, and that Mrs. Pratt, in Philadelphia. During this absence, Miss Lawson says, she found herself nearly destitute, and was driven to appeal for assistance. She communicated with Mr. Proll and at last called on him at Hackettstown, following his instructions to present herself as Mrs. Pratt, his wife in Philadelphia. There she saw Mrs. Pratt, the Philadelphia nurse. There she saw Mrs. Pratt for the first time.

"He told me not to make a scene," said the young woman, "and promised to tell his wife everything regarding us. 'I'm dying,' he said, 'and it will only hasten the end if you make any trouble.'"

Miss Lawson said she remained in the Proll home, as Mrs. Pratt, and nursed the dying man until the end came, about two weeks later. After Mr. Proll's death Miss Lawson was in despair. She said that she called on his lawyer, A. W. Kiddle, and represented herself as the widow, but under his questioning she admitted that the name of Mrs. Proll was only assumed.

"I assumed the name first in 1903," she said on the witness stand. "I had used it temporarily before that on several occasions, but I was known as Mrs. Proll everywhere."

Asked why she had brought suit over the policy she replied that she supposed it was necessary in order to make the proceedings legal. "But I had every moral right to call myself Mrs. Proll," she added.

"Isn't it a fact," asked Wilson B. Brice, counsel for the Superintendent of Insurance, on cross-examination, "that when you visited Hackettstown you tried to take Mr. Proll to Philadelphia with you?"

"No, indeed," was the reply. "I was in destitute circumstances, but I could see that his family was almost as badly off as I was, so I said nothing." She said that Mr. Proll had been connected with several automobile manufacturing concerns.

Mrs. Proll, dressed in deep mourning, took the stand to identify the signature of her husband to several documents. She said that now she owns three houses in Saratoga Lake. Other witnesses were John H. Wood, an insurance broker, and Dr. Henry A. Baker, medical examiner for the insurance company.

TURNS CRIMINAL INTO UPRIGHT MAN

His Whole Nature Changed By Surgery, Forger Has Been Pardoned

Albany, N. Y., Jan.—Transformed by an operation on his brain from one of the most expert and remarkable criminals in the country to a man of kindest and most upright impulses—his whole nature apparently changed—Edward E. Grinnell, thirty-four years old a convict in Clinton prison, so Danemora, has been pardoned, and in a few days will be restored to his parents in Buffalo, whose fortunes and lives were wrecked by his astonishing and unexplainable series of criminal deeds.

His case for more than a year attracted the attention of alienists, neurologists, and surgeons. They at last came to the conclusion that his persistent infractions of the law were largely if not entirely, due to an injury to the brain, following a small fracture of the skull incurred when he was a boy of fourteen.

An operation performed in March, 1909, by Dr. De Witt G. Wilcox, of Boston University, one time president of the Homeopathic Medical Society of New York state, brought about an almost complete change in the convict, who had besought the surgeons in Clinton prison, to operate on him in the hope—and to him it was only the vaguest hope, but he preferred death to a continued career of crime such as he felt he was doomed to, that he might become a normal man and of some comfort and use to his impoverished and enfeebled parents.

The Surgeons' Belief. Of most perverse and criminal nature, prior to the operation, he has since become a model citizen, a moral man of the highest impulses, and the surgeon who operated on him and the physicians who have observed this case closely express the belief that the injury to his skull was primarily responsible for his eccentricities. They have in their own minds at least established the belief that criminal injuries become potent factors in developing if not producing, criminal tendencies.

Details of the amazing case were brought to the attention of Judge Charles B. Waeleer, of Buffalo, who, in 1908, sentenced Grinnell to prison on two forged checks for ten years and nine months, and he wrote to Horace White, then Lieutenant Governor, by way of aiding the appeal, that had been made to get Grinnell out of prison.

Teachers were when Grinnell was a small boy noted the difference in his deportment before and after his head injury wrote to the Governor, as did also his parents in Danemora, who had made a study of his case. After giving consideration to the case Mr. White decided to commute the sentence of the young man, and he will be liberated within a few days.

Felt Strange Influence

One of the interesting phases of the case is that Grinnell felt during his years of crime that some strange influence held sway over him and prompted him to do things which he knew he should not. After he was sent to prison for the fourth time he began to study criminology and concluded that possibly the injury to his skull was responsible for all his escapades. He first interested Dr. Wilcox in his case and begged him to operate on him.

Soon after his recovery he said to Dr. J. B. Kanton physician in Clinton prison who had charge of the case for Dr. Wilcox: "I see things differently and notice more and think I have found myself. I can concentrate my mind more easily and my general mental condition is better. I have noticed an increase of sensitiveness to my prison environment, consequently I am at times a little depressed over it."

In his letter to Mr. White, Judge Wheeler, of Buffalo, wrote: "Grinnell (at the time of his trial for forgery) did not deny any of the facts, but his counsel contended that his criminal impulses were the result of injuries to the head received when a boy. It appeared that in boyhood Grinnell had received a blow in the head from a picket which fractured the skull and left a depression plainly discernible. Grinnell declared he could resist impulses to commit crimes and overcame his criminal propensities to his injury."

"He protested a desire to lead a proper life and a willingness to submit to an operation to remove the depression in his skull in the hope of beneficial results. At that time I did not place credence in the claim made in his behalf. I considered him a clever professional crook, dangerous to the community and for those reasons I imposed sentence upon him. I am advised that since entering prison he has submitted to an operation. The fact I understand, are all before you. I can only say that Grinnell comes from a most respectable family and his criminal career has caused them great distress and grief."

MILLIONAIRES OF NEW YORK ARE POOR

Very Few Magnates in American Metropolis Assessed for More Than $1,000,000

New York, Jan. 26.—New York's new assessment lists, published today, reveal some marvelous facts. Perhaps the most surprising is that only four residents of New York are taxed for more than $1,000,000 in real property. They are Mrs. Margaret S. S. Rockefeller, widow of Russell Sage; Andrew Carnegie, John D. Rockefeller, and Wm. K. Vanderbilt.

Mrs. Sage and Mr. Carnegie head the list with assessments of $5,000,000 each. Mr. Carnegie for many years paid the largest assessment. One year ago the list was temporarily headed by Emma B. Kennedy, whose assessment was $6,000,000. This year her assessment is reduced to $2,500,000. Against Mr. Rockefeller is charged $2,500,000 worth of personal property, and Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt is assessed for the even $1,000,000. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., seems almost to be a pauper. He is assessed for but $250,000, while six members of the Vanderbilt family, other than W. K. get off with a combined total of $1,130,000.

Three women who are assessed for $500,000 each are Clara T. Dexter, Mary Mitchell, and Florence A. V. Twombly. The name of Electra Havemeyer appears for $100,000. Four members of the Huyler family are assessed for $200,000.

A few other names of prominent men and women appear in the new list, and the amounts with which they are assessed are as follows: Levi P. Morcon, $100,000; Blanche Schwab, $100,000; Anna S. Siemsen, $100,000; Paul Morton, $100,000; Fannie F. Sisson, $100,000; Anna Billings Tilton, $200,000.

Three members of the Seligman family furnish a total of $350,000. W. Howard Taft assessed for $50,000. Four members of the Tiffany family $300,000. Warner Van Norden, $300,000.

John J. Astor is assessed for $400,000. Six members of the Cornelius N. Bliss family are down for $80,000. J. Pierpont Morgan's personal assessment is $400,000. Other well-known names are as follows: Charlotte S. Baker, $750,000; Joseph H. Glatfelter, $750,000; Henry Clay, $100,000; Mary K. Giesler, $500; H. R. Guggenheimer, $500,000; P. C. Havemeyer, $500,000; T. A. Havemeyer, $500,000; three members of the Huntington family, $350,000; Frank A. Atunsey, $500,000; Joseph Pulitzer, $500,000; Jacob H. Schiff, $200,000; James Stillman, $100,000; Charles M. Schwab, $250,000; Ernest Thalmann, $100,000.

Altogether less than four hundred names appear on the lists assessed for $50,000 and over.

In the real estate assessment some great advances are noticed. The Pennsylvania railroad station takes first place on the list, with a jump in a single year from $8,500,000 to $10,000,000. The Waldorf Astor still stands at the head of the hotel list, with an assessed valuation of $4,750,000. The site alone of the Alpine Apartment is $4,500,000. Remarkable rises in value are shown in the Herald Square section and in Fifth avenue. The site of the Madison Square Gardens is assessed this year at $2,000,000. Senator Wm. A. Clarke's residence in Fifth avenue is assessed for $2,000,000, which is a large single jump on a residence. J. Pierpont Morgan's residence is assessed for $2,430,000.

Assessments on the downtown skyscrapers and the big corporation buildings also show sharp upward movements. The increase is the largest since 1907, when Seth Low initiated the movement to equalize taxation.

Some of the large assessments on real estate, in addition to those already mentioned, are as follows: Equitable Life, $12,000,000; Mutual Life, $12,500,000; Hudson Terminal Buildings, $12,500,000; Singer Building, $6,750,000; Metropolitan Life, $12,475,000; Titus's, $1,545,000; New York Life Exchange, $5,300,000; Standard Oil Company building, $3,400,000; Altman's, $7,105,000; Gimbel Bros., $7,000,000; Grand Central Station, $7,500,000; Hotel Astor, $6,000,000; Sherry's, $3,000,000; Metropolitan Opera House, $3,470,000; Hippodrome, $2,250,000; Andrew Carnegie, assessment on residence, $2,300,000; Plaza Hotel, $7,600,000; St. Regis, $2,640,000; University club, $1,850,000; J. J. Astor's private residence, $7,700,000.

The increase in the assessment value of the real property amounts to the stupendous sum of $82,704,863.

viewed that since entering prison he has submitted to an operation. The fact I understand, are all before you. I can only say that Grinnell comes from a most respectable family and his criminal career has caused them great distress and grief."

FRISCO STARTING WHITE SLAVE WAR

Police and Federal Officials After Men Responsible for Traffic

San Francisco, Jan. 26.—With two alleged "white slaves" held in custody San Francisco's police authorities today entered upon a crusade with the object of stamping out the traffic in women here, and, if possible, the arrest and conviction of the men "higher up."

Indication that the hunt will be pushed to a finish was found in the heavy bond, $20,000, in which Police Judge Sherrill today held Lake H. Orkman, whom the police charge with being a resort for the "white slave" powers, an who is accused of luring Frieda Fraser to a life of shame by promises that he would introduce her to a life of luxury if she would follow his advice.

So far as has yet appeared, the federal authorities have not been active in the case, but it is understood they are acting in concert with the police of the different coast cities and that such a crusade as cleaned up Chicago is to be prosecuted to a conclusion at once.

STATE SHOULD PAY ALL DOCTORS BILLS

Prominent Medical Man Says Expenditure of $500,000,000 would Eradicate Consumption

London, Eng., Jan. 23.—To have the state pay all doctor's bills in the United Kingdom is the rather startling idea of Prof. Benjamin Moore of the Liverpool University. He proposes to substitute a national medical service for the present system, "whereby a mob of 32,000 sweated and underpaid British doctors in private practice earn on an average less than $1200 a year."

An interesting point is that Prof. Moore regards the forethoughtless legislation for invalidity insurance and poor law reform as a step towards his ideal of a national medical service.

He estimates that for an expenditure of less than $500,000,000 a year for ten years, the eradication of consumption, producing an annual saving of $105,000,000 to the nation, could be guaranteed.

From the point of view of the medical profession, as well as the nation, Prof. Moore makes out an attractive case for his scheme. The state would employ the 32,000 doctors at an annual average pay of $1300 a year. Total cost, about $500,000,000 per year. They would no longer be sweated (as he says they are) by the friendly societies, trustees, etc., and their quarterly check from the state would relieve them of the annoyance and waste of time in sending out bills and hunting up debts, allow them more leisure to keep in touch with the rapid progress of medical science.

From the public point of view, he suggests that the gain would be immense.

A PHENOMENA OF NATURE

There is no phenomenon of nature that escapes the investigating eye of science. Abroad they have been experimenting with boundaries in order to determine whether the whiteness of the under sides of those fish is due to the exclusion of light, and the presence of color on their upper sides to exposure to light.

Fish have been kept in a glass tank having a mirror placed beneath, so as to reflect light upon their under sides. One of these prisoners survived for three years under conditions so strangely different from its ordinary habits of life, and it exhibited the development of spots or pigments on its lower surface.

The experimenters have concluded that it is exposure to light that causes the coloration of the upper parts of the bodies, not only of boundary, but of other fish, and, conversely, that it is to the comparative absence of light that the whiteness of the under side is due. They extend the same principle to explain the colorless condition of the skins of many animals that pass all their lives in caves.

ARGUMENT AGAINST INCREASED RATES

Attorney Holds That Railroads Right of Eminent Domain Would Act As Bar

Washington, Jan. 26.—Arguing that the railroads' power of "eminent domain" would operate as a bar to increased railroad rates, John H. Aswood, attorney for the western shippers' committee, argued today before the interstate commerce commission against the proposed advance.

Atwood based his contention on the ruling of the supreme court of the United States in the case of Wilcox against the Consolidated Gas Company of New York, in which it held that it "consented with the lower court that the status of the property be determined as of the time when the inquiry was made regarding rates. If the property legally entering into the consideration of the rates increased in value since it was acquired, the company was entitled to the benefits of such increase."

Aswood argued the converse of the proposition. "The railroads, he said, could not make the same claim as the gas company had done, because they were clothed with the power of 'eminent domain,' which the gas company was not. He contended that the investor in railroad stocks knew when he invested that the railroad could secure property much cheaper by exercising its right of 'eminent domain,' and therefore rightfully expected only a fair return for his investment."

The pastor of a colored church in the South was rather too much inclined to be "high" in introducing various innovations in his church that were not at all to the liking of the old-fashioned darkies.

Among his "new" ideas, the pastor had arranged for stained glass in the church windows. This he was showing in triumph to one old woman parishioner, when he asked her how she liked it.

"It's shore beautiful," the old lady was forced to admit; "but 'dear an' deed, sah, I prefers de glass just as God made it, sah!"

CANADA TODAY; THE AMERICAN INVASION

(By William Maxwell, in the London Daily Mail.)

Uncle Sam cannot steal over here in the dark and absorb us without our being aware of the fact. We were talking of the "American Invasion" and of the probable influence on the decay of the Dominion. In the last ten years nearly half a million people have left the United States to settle in Canada. They come over at the solicitation of the Dominion Government and not one Canadian in a thousand has any fear of their rivalry in commerce or agriculture or politics. Winnipeg, with easy confidence born of success, speaks of the American invader as Aberdeen speaks of the Pole who went to live in the Granite City. "He comes to Winnipeg, but he does not stay in Winnipeg."

But there are places where he does stay, for the American invasion is no new thing, though its phenomenal growth is beginning to attract attention. In 1900-1, 17,987 Americans crossed the border into Canada. In 1909-10 the figures rose to 59,832. In the twelve months ended March last they rose to 103,798. In the last ten years the total immigration from the United States into Canada has been 497,228, while that from the British Isles has been 562,954, or a balance of 64,826 in favor of the British immigrants. But the significant fact is this: last year the United States immigration was nearly double that of the previous year and 4,608 in excess of the British immigration. And there is every probability that this relative excess of American settlers over British will continue owing to the conditions imposed by the Dominion Government and to the special requirements of Canada.

The American Invasion.

Nor is the American invasion one of people only. It is an invasion of capital also. Settlers from the United States brought to Canada last year cash and effects valued at $100,000,000. The Commissioner of Emigration tells me that the average capital of the American immigrant is $1,000, whereas the average capital of the British immigrant is only $15. It is this all-American capital which has vast areas of timber land in the western Canada. Nearly two-thirds of valuable timber of British Columbia is said to be owned by United States companies. American land companies have entered into competition with the Dominion Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway and settling vast regions north of the United States border. American capital is invested in Canadian mines and industries and is advanced on mortgages over many farms in the north and the middle west.

This great and growing expansion of United States activity in Canada due to causes that are partly artificial and partly natural. Hitherto British capital has been almost exclusively interested in Canadian railways, public works, and the industrial has been left open to the United States. Recently there has been a tendency of British capital toward land and the natural resources of the Dominion.

The building of new railways opened up new regions in the west of Canada and has given impetus to immigration from the United States and from Europe. The advantages of these new territories have been impressed upon the farmer of the United States by energetic missionaries of immigration, whose organization extends from Massachusetts to Oregon. For several years the agents of the Canadian Government have been doing "spade-work" in the States of the west and middle west.

They have lately redoubled their efforts, and regarding themselves as commercial travelers with a good title to sell they have pushed their wares upon a rising market. Conditions have been in their favor. In the United States there has been a movement "back to the land," and the farmer has felt that movement.

There has always been ready to sell a small farm for a big price in order to buy a big piece of land. These men have been in Dakota or Montana and buy in Alberta or Saskatchewan for the reason that Canadians are selling their farms in Ontario and moving westward to the prairies. Then there are sons of American farmers whose fortunes are restricted by the conditions of the Western States. They also cross the frontier into the new land of promise. Again, in the United States, as in the Transvaal, are men who feel that they are overcrowded when they can see the smoke of a neighbor's fire from their own doorway. They, too, in spite and trek to the new Canadian settlements. These immigrants from the United States have decided advantages over immigrants from Europe. They have high experience and capital. They have served their apprenticeship in pioneer work; they are familiar with the conditions of life on the prairies, with the methods, and machinery of cultivation which are common to the United States and Canada, and if they change their sky they do not change their continent. You will be told that many of these "American invaders" are expatriated Canadians, but the vast majority of them are of Canadian, German and Polish origin. Some are British, and some are certainly "old-time" Americans. Nearly one-half of them become "homesteaders." In other words they occupy lands under grant from the Dominion Government and use their capital to develop their estates. The rest buy their holdings from railway and land companies or settle in the towns to engage in commerce or industry, to advance money on mortgages, to buy and sell land, and, according to Canadians, "to go out on business as bankers" when they have learned that the Canadian banking system has superior merits of its own.

Adverse Criticism.

That the American invaders make good citizens is generally acknowledged. I have heard adverse criticisms, but they are directed mainly against the farming methods of the settlers. Having exhausted the fertility of the soil over the border, they are suspected of coming to "mine" the new lands of Canada. But these criticisms need not be taken very seriously. They are made by men in the eastern provinces, who imagine that in a quarter of a century the middle-west of the United States will be exhausted and deserted owing to the methods of agriculture. Moreover, "mining" or taking out of the soil all it can give and putting back nothing in return is not unknown in Canada.

The fact is therefore established that the invasion of the people and of capital from the United States has in-

Upon purely Canadian questions the American immigrant, when he begins to exercise his rights as a citizen, may, and probably will, realize the high expectations of the native-born Canadian. But on those larger issues in which not Canadians alone but citizens of the Empire are concerned—the issues of Imperial Federation and Imperial Commerce—have we the same assurance? Now and for some years to come the agencies of education, of government, of law, and of local administration must remain in the hands of Canadians whose patriotic and imperial sentiments are unquestionable. Will they be unaffected by the new blood when it begins to circulate freely? Will the American invader be a hindrance, even if he cannot be a help, to our imperial aspirations?

Settlers Make Good.

That the American settler will make a good Canadian is the common judgment of Canadians. But the same judgment admits without reserve that he will not necessarily make a good Britisher, since he brings with him none of the blood and traditions of the British Empire.

"At the same time," say Canadians, "there are ways of weaning him from the memories and prejudices of his early Republican connection."

The emigrant from the Republic to Canada comes under the impression that the Dominion is a British colony administered from Downing Street, paying tribute to Great Britain, and ruled directly by the King. He soon learns that the Dominion Government is not the mere shadow or authority, that there is not tribute to pay—except the tribute of sentiment and allegiance—and that the Government of the province in which he lives has as much liberty and power as the State Government of which he has ceased to be a citizen. This knowledge quickly reconciles him to institutions based on a Constitutional Monarchy instead of on a Republic.

"And," said a shrewd Canadian to me, "there is no man on earth who loves a big thing more than your Re-

Probably the best individual piece of publicity literature that has ever been published about Alberta is Robert Dunn's story of the Peace River country told in the February number of Everybody's and it is one of the direct results of the Peace River trip last summer when J. K. Cornwall led a party of magazine and newspaper headlines into the real last west which lies to the north and west of Edmonton.

Dunn's story is a good story, well written and well illustrated and the most admirable feature is that he has really caught the spirit of the thing; that he understands the struggle which is going on in the last west between the old fur trading corporations which have held undisputed domination for centuries, and the settlers, who are now commencing for the first time to dispute this right to rule.

Of all the big monthly magazines, Everybody's has probably the largest circulation, and the Peace River country, through this one article alone, will undoubtedly be introduced to thousands and hundreds of thousands of residents of the United States who have heretofore scarcely known the name. Taken together with the stories which have appeared in the Saturday Evening Post and other big magazines, the Peace River jaunt of the newspaper party last summer has probably brought out the greatest circulation of new stuff on the last west that has ever been enjoyed by any line of literature published about western Canada. The fortunate feature about this is that the effect is cumulative. The publication of one magazine article about the Peace River country will lead to the publication of others, and the reading of one will lead to the reading of others.

It may be fairly said that the Peace River country is now before the world, and that within the next year or two it will be as well known to the average reader as the states of Minnesota or Dakota. In the achievement of this desirable end "Jim" Cornwall's Peace River party was probably the most important incident.

nurse. Little boy and girl, the first time.
"He told me not to make a scene," said the young woman, "and promised to tell his wife everything regarding us. 'I'm dying,' he said, 'and it will only hasten the end if you make any trouble.'"

Miss Lawson said she remained in the Proll home, as Mrs. Pratt, and nursed the dying man until the end came, about two weeks later. After Mr. Proll's death Miss Lawson was in despair. She said that she called on his lawyer, A. W. Kiddle, and represented herself as the widow, but under his questioning she admitted that the name of Mrs. Proll was only assumed.

"I assumed the name first in 1902," she said on the witness stand. "I had used it temporarily before that on several occasions, but I was known as Mrs. Proll everywhere."

Asked why she had brought suit over the policy she replied that she supposed it was necessary in order to make the proceedings legal. "But I had every moral right to call myself Mrs. Proll," she added.

"Isn't it a fact," asked Wilson B. Brice, counsel for the Superintendent of Insurance, on cross-examination, "that when you visited Hackettstown you tried to take Mr. Proll to Philadelphia with you?"

"No, indeed," was the reply. "I was in destitute circumstances, but I could see that his family was almost as badly off as I was, so I said nothing." She said that Mr. Proll had been connected with several automobile manufacturing concerns.

Mrs. Proll, dressed in deep mourning, took the stand to identify the signature of her husband to several documents. She said that now she owns three houses in Saranac Lake. Other witnesses were John H. Wood, an insurance broker, and Dr. Henry A. Baier, medical examiner for the insurance company.

NO TELLING HOW SOON

"So you don't guide hunting parties any more?"

"No," was the slow rejoinder from the man whitening in front of the village store; "got tired of being mistook for a deer."

"How do you earn your living now?"

"Guide fishin' jannies. So far no-

JUST PARAGRAPHS

The big revival campaign in Toronto booked a losing of $6,000. This shows pretty conclusively that Toronto is beyond redemption.

Unless the Grand Trunk Pacific faculty look lively the C. N. R. will beat them to the Yellowhead yet. The name MacKenzie connected with the new construction company denotes speed.

Nervous Prostration

Makes You Weak,
Helpless and Miserable.

Wherever there are sickly people who are troubled with deranged nerves they will find that Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills will restore the equilibrium of these deranged centres, and bring back the shattered nervous system to a perfect condition.

They do this by their restorative influence on every organ and tissue of the body, and their extraordinary curative power manifests itself immediately they are taken.

Mrs. G. D. Ward, Huntsville, Ont., writes: "I take pleasure in sending you my testimonial in praise of your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I suffered terribly with nervous prostration, and became so bad I was not able to attend to my household duties, and now I can truthfully say that I owe my life to them. Three boxes stopped my trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 10c. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

OPPOSITION TO KIDNEY BLOW MAY CAUSE IT TO BE BARRD

New York, Jan. 26.—The crusade against the kidney blow, which started in England directly after the Weldon Driscoll battle, has reached such a stage it is highly probable English referees in the future will be instructed to disqualify pugilists who use this pugnacious unfair blow.

There is such opposition to the kidney blow in this country, too, although fight promoters have not yet taken up the matter. The Queensberry rules call for a "fair, stand-up boxing match," which would seem to indicate when the code was drawn up the kidney punch had not come into use. In England it is argued that this blow is contrary to the letter and spirit of the rules, and therefore a clear foul. It is contended that when boxers get into a half clinch and one of them with the free hand pounds his opponent in the small of the back the boxing manifestly is unfair and does not produce a fair test of boxing skill.

Kidney punching has been prevalent in many championship battles in this country, though it may be said the little fellows employ such tactics more than the big men. This method of assault has been pronounced injurious by many physicians and has also been denounced by ring followers who prefer clean cut fights. It is said the kidney punches hitting Nelson received from the late Joe Gans at Goldfield affected him internally and so weakened him that he developed a nervous ailment which has much to do with his defeat at the hands of Wolgast a year ago.

It would be an easy matter to cut out the kidney blow, it is believed, for the average boxer does not care for it and would readily agree to its elimination. The pivot blow was barred many years ago, and it is seldom that boxers attempt to use it.

The salary limit of the O. and P. league has been raised from $400 to $200 and must include that of managers.

There will be nothing doing between the Giants and White Sox in Texas this spring. The proposed series has been declared off.

Pfecher Boh Groom refuses to sign a Washington contract on account of the salary offered.

FEW BALL "FINDS" PROVE VALUABLE

Young Texan Touted As 1911 Sensation to Play First for White Sox

The annual season for talk of wonderful "finds" for the coming baseball period of championship play is on, and on strong. Already, though the fixtures and routine of the training season are not settled for most of the big league teams, fans are talking over the new men signed by various clubs and magnates, eyeing baseball as the new men they will have to show.

It is not surprising that teams which have not stood high in the pennant race of the year previous are invariably those which have the greatest number of "finds" on paper. Nor is it surprising that year after year a large percentage of these "finds" blow up early in the regular season and long before the midyear have been shipped back to the teams whence they came.

One of these "finds" for the coming season is "Tex" Jones, secured from the St. Joseph team of the West, one league by President Comiskey of the White Sox. Jones is rated as a great baseball player. One of his sponsors is Frank Ibbell, the former Sox player, who, when he left the major league game, had a record for playing in almost every position regularly at some time or other equalled, perhaps, by no other man.

White Sox First Baseman Jones is talked of now as the possible first baseman of the Sox next season. It is a clutch that some one is needed for this position, Jiggs Donahue, some time back, sent word to Comiskey that he would like to have another try at his old position. He probably will be given a chance if he sticks to his wish, but the chances that he will hold down the job during the year do not look too rosy to me.

Blackburne, the "St. Joseph heavy" of the Sox, to secure whose services a year ago there was considerable wrangling, is another player who has been spoken of as the first baseman for the Sox the coming season. There does not seem much chance of his being seen in this position, however.

Fails to Show Class Blackburne did not seem come up to expectations last year. However Manager Duffy still has hopes. Those have been stimulated of late by a letter from Blackburne in which the latter says he is right back in shape to play at the top of his form. He had a bad knee and had been wearing a plaster cast. This has been able to remove and his knee should be as good as ever by the time the season opens.

One of the most weird baseball chasers carried on during the holiday season was the sale of the St. Louis Browns and the attempt to select a manager for the coming season. The weirdness of the thing was that the club really sold for, but this is probably information that is held only by the most inner circles. A lot of persons profess to know all about the price and how the deal was made, and all the rest of it. This is all bunk.

Roger Bresnahan of the Cardinals has canned about all of his veterans and will try to win the National League pennant with youngsters.

Some good times and distances were made in the Y. M. C. A. indoor athletic contests held in the gymnasium last night. The century on the small track shows good speed, the fastest time being 124.5 seconds. For the broad jump Murdoch clocked first place jumping 9 feet three inches. The complete results were as follows: Standing broad jump, 1st., Murdoch, 9 feet 3 in.; 2nd., D. D. Harrison, 9 feet 12 in.; 3rd., J. D. Harrison, 9 feet 1 in.

100 yards dash—1st., Drummond, 12.5 seconds; 2nd., Tappin 12.4 seconds; 3rd., 13 seconds.

100 TO 1 SHOT WINS

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 26.—Oakhurst, at 100 to 1, furnished the sensation of the afternoon at Monroville, by winning the fifth race. Another surprise was sprung when Gerver Hughes, at 15 to 1, captured the third race. Descombes won the feature, a selling handicap of one mile, defeating Glucose, the odds-on favorite, in a drive, by a length.

If ever there was a thankless job, it is certainly a refereeing a game of hockey, umpiring a game of baseball, refereeing a game of lacrosse, etc. The man who can adequately fill one of these positions and emerge with the complete satisfaction and compliments of the winning team, the losing team and the general public would seem a wonder.

Jimmie Collins will be retained next season as the manager of the Providence club in the Eastern league.
